What's New? By Don Finkle: Last week we were all in Annapolis for the US Sailboat Show. While this is still the largest show of its kind in North America it is certainly a lot smaller than it used to be. The weather was atrocious and this impacted the attendance but boats were being sold and those who came seemed to be enjoying themselves. When the crowds are lighter it sure makes it easier to move around. Another plus is that because of all the rain most exhibitors let you board without taking your shoes off. A joke within the business is checking out the shoes of the people who come to look. Rarely is this a problem at the sailboat show as soft sole non-marking shoes are the norm. The powerboat shows are a different story however, it is shocking to see what some of the women wear.....they obviously have not been on many boats in their past. You can't let them board with high heel hard sole boots!

The number of race boats being displayed is telling for the direction of the sport. There were very few larger performance boats, reflecting the fact that this segment is really soft right now. Instead sportboats were much more in evidence. There were a number of small foreign-built racers under 30', some of which were mentioned in a recent Sailing World magazine article on new boats. We were gratified to see how well our various J models stack up to the others.

The reasons for so much interest in smaller keel boats these days are many. It is harder to get crew for a big boat program; high tech sails are wonderful but expensive, big boats need more sails and burn through them; most racing sailors no longer spend much time below or overnight so they do not need a fully-fitted out interior or much space below; smaller boats are easier to transport making travel a lot less expensive, opening up the opportunity to do more events; sportboats are fun and exciting and those who sailed smaller boats when they were younger get a kick out of the performance they offer; you can still keep your big boat if you wish and buy a sportboat as a second boat, numerous J/70 owners have done just that; the economic climate discourages larger investments right now so smaller boats are a much easier decision; as handicap fleets shrink it means less competition and therefore less reason to buy or keep a larger race boat. We could go on but you get the picture. This may be a cycle that will change down the road, we do not expect that any time soon. In the meantime there are very good buys on used mid and large size race boats for those who wish to play that game, check out our list below.

We were treated to two presentations on the 2013 America's Cup while were in Annapolis. The first was a brief talk by Jimmy Spithill at the Eastport YC. He is a very high-energy guy and you could see why he was a good leader for the Oracle team. He is also enraptured with the AC72 foiling cats and made it sound like they would be back for the next Cup in several years. Then on Friday morning the Sail America breakfast featured Gary Jobson and Tucker Thompson speaking and showing slides from the Cup. Both of those guys spent a lot of time producing and commentating for TV in San Francisco and you could tell that they were really excited by the boats as well as the drama of the Finals match. Gary was asked what Oracle did to pull it off and he mentioned a whole series of changes they made during the finals to continually get faster. Clearly they were off the pace at first, both speed-wise and in boat handling, but Larry Ellison apparently made his point to his charges and they responded ashore and afloat. Before long a decision will be made on the next venue and the boats to be used in it. Reading between the lines SF is a potential location again and it does not appear that they will be going backward in the type of boats to be sailed. It is obvious that the foiling cats in this location attracted many spectators and TV watchers who would not have been interested in the type of AC regattas held previously. My own personal belief is that we should return to the nationality rule which would make for even more excitement from fans around the globe.

This weekend three Youngstown and two Rochester teams will be competing in the J/70 Fall Brawl at Eastport YC in Annapolis. After that boats will begin to head south for a series of J/70 one design regattas over the winter and spring.

draws near. If you would like to have your scorer included, please let us know.

Administrative Assistant Joanne Seeds has recently joined us to assist in the day to day operations and will be learning all there is to know about processing your race results. Joanne is a member of the Frenchmans Bay YC and has a keen interest in learning all about sail boat racing and PHRF-LO.

Lastly: I will be upgrading the web site over the next month. Please be patient if our site appears to be off line as I work out the bugs.

The 2014 Toronto Area Hospice Regatta (TAHR) will take place June 14-15, 2014 at the National Yacht Club in Toronto. This year marks the seventh anniversary of this exciting charity sailing regatta, where 100 per cent of the net proceeds are donated to a local hospice in Toronto. Over the past six years, the Toronto sailing community proudly raised and donated nearly $130,000 to local residential hospices to help individuals who have a limited life expectancy. The proceeds of next year's event will once again be donated to The Dorothy Ley Hospice. Invited fleets for the TAHR 2014 are M20, M24, J22, J24, J70, J80, Shark, C&C99, B10R, B36.7, and 8M.

We are asking one design fleets to consider including the TAHR on their 2014 class schedules. It was truly a privilege for our event to host the 2013 Beneteau 36.7 Canadian Championship and we hope that you will consider using the TAHR as the host regatta for your championship event again. Please know that our regatta organizing committee is doing everything possible to ensure that your fleet's experience at the 2014 TAHR is a memorable one. Next year we'll offer some exciting changes, including changes to the race management team to ensure the TAHR continues to offer championship-caliber racing that attracts the most competitive fleets. We are also in the final stages of securing a title sponsor whose generosity will play a very significant role in our ability to deliver a top-notch event. The entry fee at this time includes docking, parking, water, electricity, camping and limited accommodations on larger keelboats, based on availability. This charity regatta is a wonderful example of our sailing community coming together to support and enrich the lives of individuals and families in our community. Thank you for your past support and contribution to this event and we hope that you will join us again next year.

We have had so many used boats added to our brokerage listings of late that it has kept us very busy with photos and postings to all of the various sites we advertise on. Check out our list below, those shown in this newsletter are only the performance boats we have for sale in-house, there are many other cruising boats available too. Please keep in mind that the list contains only our own Central listings, those that are listed directly for sale at RCR. We of course share these listings with all other brokers, same as the MLS works in real estate. At the same time it is always a struggle to make the point that we can sell any boat that is out there for sale through any other brokerage, we are not limited to our own Centrals. Just as we work with other brokers to sell our own listings, we work with out of town brokers to find boats for our local customers. Again, similar to real estate. So please let us know what you are looking for and we will find it and negotiate on your behalf. No cost to you for this arrangement.

We have started a J/88 fleet here in Youngstown that currently numbers four boats for the 2014 season. The 29 foot J/88 fits nicely between the J/70 and J/111 and shares some characteristics of both: like great cockpit, carbon rig, fast, easy to handle, race-ready as standard and FUN! Let us take you for a ride.

New Facebook fan-page for RFA <https://www.facebook.com/pages/Rochester-Frostbite-Association/351086148359213> for those on Facebook give it a "like" and suggest to friends to help spread the word about frostbiting-Kira Munger

SAILMAKERS DISCOUNTS: It's that time of year where the Sailmakers backlogs are down and they are scrambling for business... Discounts for new sails as well as repairs are the norm in the sailmaking industry in the fall. It's a great opportunity to save some $$$ if you are in the market for a new sail or have needed repair work.

J70 & J88 Demo Sailing Available Now: Our boats are in the water here in Youngstown and a ride can easily be arranged by contacting any one of our brokers or Jim Egloff. We have lots of interest in both of these models, the J70 fleet continues to grow and we are starting a local J88 fleet right now. Come and join in the fun!

Flea Market For Sale Items: There have been a number of items added of late. We encourage our readers to submit their list of items for sale, all we ask is that you let us know when they are sold so the list stays current and accurate. J88 News: We have started a specific newsletter for the new J88 that we will be sending out to those with some level of interest in this new design. We are also scheduling demo sail sessions. To get on the mailing list please send me your email. To set up a test sail contact any RCR broker or Jim Egloff.

RCR is now on Twitter. Slowly but surely we are catching up with all of these social media sites where our readers look for news and updates. We started with Facebook and now we are on Twitter as well.

If you are thinking of selling we can use more listings because our extensive marketing program generates plenty of leads. There is still time to sell this fall before sales slow down over the winter. Contact any of our brokers for a free evaluation of the sale prospects and pricing for your present boat.

Check out our list of used race boats for sale in this issue, you'll find some slick boats
